NVIDIA Corp (NVDA.O)

Raising TP to $300 into GTC; Maintain Buy

CITI'S TAKE

NVDA stock was mostly flat after market despite guiding to an Apr-Q $5B beat and reaching $78B in sales on exponential agentic AI demand. We see GTC in mid-March as a positive event for the stock and expect Nvidia to showcase Groq SRAM low latency inference, CPUs, and Optical networking (see report). Moreover, early visibility into 2027 sales could catalyze stock.

Estimate Changes — We revise FY2027E/FY2028E sales by 4% reflecting better-than expected Blackwell and Rubin demand visibility. We also debut our FY2029E sales estimates of $566B (+15% YoY) and expect NVDA to grow sales between C2025-C2028 @ 35% CAGR. We maintain our FY2027E/FY2028E non-GAAP GM (incl SBC) estimates to mid-70s%, our FY2027-28E EPS estimates go up by 2% to $8.02 and $10.20 (incl SBC), respectively. We raise our TP to $300 on consistent 30x P/E times applied to our FY2028E CY2027E EPS power of ~$10.

Rubin on Track in 2H26 — Management expects Rubin to be a cornerstone in AI inference and discussed the chip if combined with Blackwell exceeding what was included in the $500B revenue opportunity NVDA shared last year as the company has inventory and supply commitments in place to address future demand, including shipments extending into calendar 2027. NVDA expects every single one of their customers to eventually deploy Vera Rubin.

Gross Margins — Management still expects GM to be in the mid-70s. Rubin hasn't been sold yet and there would be a large mix transition of different products, so the company will update GM expectation once that transition happens, but management still believes they have the path to mid-70s. That said, we believe investors should not model GM above mid-70s as the company focuses on providing the best performance while keeping the lowest cost of TCO.

Hyperscaler Concentration — Top 5 hyperscalers have been about 50% of total revenue for several years, growing together with NVDA total revenue. Going forward, management expects the rest can grow even faster, so there will be more diversified set of customers. Open AI deal is close to being done.

NVIDIA Jan-Q Earnings Review

I- Results and Outlook

NVDA reported Jan-Q revs/non-GAAP EPS (ex-SBC) of $68.1B/$1.62 vs. our $67B/$1.54 and Street's (FactSet) $66.1B/$1.54 (ex-SBC). The company's Data Center revenue grew 22% sequentially, with the company seeing its demand growing "exponentially" driven notably by the agentic AI inflection point, which is backed by the Grace Blackwell platform NVDA guided Jan-Q revenue to $78B (at MP) vs. Citi and Street's $73B. Looking at other metrics, Jan-Q non-GAAP GM (ex-SBC) came in at 75.2%, 20bp ahead of Citi's 75% and 70bp ahead of Street's 74.5%. That said, NVDA is guiding GM in Apr-Q to 75% (at MP), which is in line with Citi and Street expectations.

Going by segments:

Data Center (DC) sales grew by 22% Q/Q (vs. Citi's/Street's +20%/+19%) Blackwell ramp continues to beat expectations. Networking ($10.9B) came in 11% higher than our $9.8B expectations. Demand for scale up and scale out technologies reached record levels, both growing double digits sequentially, driven by strong adoption of NVLink, Spectrum-X Ethernet, and InfiniBand. With the transition from Hopper to Blackwell complete, Blackwell deployments reached 9GW in the Jan-Q, likely making the product account for 90%+ of the $51B in quarterly Compute sales, up 20%+ we estimate sequentially. While management did not update on the % of Blackwell mix, GB300 likely surpassed 65% range from last quarter. Although already above expectations, we expect GB300 1k+ weekly run-rate to further increase as companies such as Anthropic, Meta, xAI continue to add capacity. NVDA discussed Vera Rubin being well on track as the company sampled to customers earlier this week and remains on track to commence production shipments in the 2H this year. Management expects Rubin to be a cornerstone in AI inference and discussed the chip if combined with Blackwell exceeding what was included in the $500B revenue opportunity NVDA shared last year as the company has inventory and supply commitments in place to address future demand, including shipments extending into calendar 2027. NVDA expects every single one of their customers to eventually deploy Vera Rubin.

Pivoting to China DC sales, NVDA as expected was unable to ship much of its products in the fourth quarter due to the US export controls. Management continues to bake in zero China H2O sales in guide.

Gaming revenue was down 13% Q/Q (vs. Citi's/Street's +2%/-6%) but up 47% Y/Y. The segment represented ~5% of sales this quarter, down from 7% in Oct-Q. This was driven by the ramp of Blackwell GeForce GPUs amid an increased supply availability. We continue to model the segment being mostly in lockstep with notebook seasonality thus down sequentially in Jan-Q. In addition to seasonality NVDA, understandably so is favoring its DC when it comes to allocations which should limit growth. We estimate that if supply eases in gaming, NVDA will likely accelerate the shipment of its next Gen GeForce RTX AI PC. On-device AI front, NVDA discussed RTX GPUs as the best platform.

Pro Visualization revenue was up a massive 74% QoQ (vs. Citi's/Street's +20%/-1%), the segment crossed now the $1B sales mark. NVDA sees strong demand with DGX Spark being the key driver for growth. On top of DGX Spark, we estimate that DGX Station which management talked about its deployment in 2H2026 participated in the outperformance and will likely contribute to further growth in CY2027. We estimate that the segment to now be more tied to AI than gaming, we estimate the rapid growth of DGX will help generate moderate growth in Apr-Q despite two consecutive 15%+ sequential growth quarters. We model 2% growth in Apr-Q. Lastly, this quarter NVDA announced NVIDIA DLSS 4.5 which they expect to deliver major AI-powered advances in graphics quality. The company also launched the RTX PRO 5000 Blackwell workstation with 72 GB of fast memory for AI developers running LLMs and agentic workflows.

Auto sales rose modestly by 2% Q/Q (vs. Citi's/Street's +7%/+11%). NVIDIA unveiled Alpamayo family of open AI models, simulation tools and datasets designed to accelerate the next era of safe, reasoning-based autonomous vehicle (AV) development. NVDA pursues shipments of NVIDIA Thor SoC, the successor to Oren. Thor's arrival coincides with the industry's accelerating shift to vision language model architecture generative AI and higher levels of autonomy. To us it is clear, NVDA is seeing growth in in-car chip demand as some customers are starting to launch L3 which requires more advanced algorithms as well as larger models. Outside the vehicle they are seeing a large opportunity with, for instance, their digital twin offering with Omniverse used by OEMs to test their AV applications. Toyota, the world's largest automaker, will build its next-generation vehicles on NVIDIA DRIVE AGX, running the safety-certified NVIDIA DriveOS operating system. Today NVDA announced end-to-end autonomous vehicle platform NVIDIA Drive Hyperion has passed industry safety assessments like TÜV SÜD and TÜV Rheinland, 2 of the industry's foremost authorities for automotive grade safety and cybersecurity. This quarter NVDA discussed its partnership with Uber to scale the world's largest Level 4 ready autonomous fleet built on the new NVIDIA Hyperion L4 robotaxi reference architecture. We think NVDA's new 1-year cadence will likely deliver new products with new architectures that can accelerate adoption by auto OEMs. Management previously discussed its Auto total sales (DC + Auto) to reach $5B in FY2026. With $2.4B in sales in the auto segment, we expect the remaining pieces to be embedded in the compute segment.

Non-GAAP GM (ex-SBC and charges) rose in Jan-Q, it came in at 75.2% vs. Citi's 75%. Non-GAAP operating expenses (ex-SBC) were $5.1B (ex-SBC), up 21% QoQ. Non-GAAP EPS (ex-SBC and charges) was $1.62 up 25% QoQ. We note that NVDA now includes SBC in its Non-GAAP metrics. With that in mind, Non-GAAP

GM (incl) rose in Jan-Q, it came in at 75.1% vs. Citi's 75%. Non-GAAP operating expenses (incl-SBC) were $6.8B (incl-SBC), up 16% QoQ. Non-GAAP EPS (incl-SBC) was $1.55 up 26% QoQ.

Apr-Q guide: NVDA guided Apr-Q revenue to $78B at MP, up 14% Q/Q and 77% Y/Y. Prior to results, Citi/Street expected $73B (FactSet). Data center growth, yet again, is expected to be the primary driver of the sequential sales growth backed notably by the growing agentic AI demand of AI GPUs and networking products particularly NVDA's Ethernet platform. Finally, NVDA is guiding GM (incl. SBC) to mostly remain flat with Apr-Q-Q's Non-GAAP GM (ex-SBC) reaching 75% (at MP), which is in line with Citi and Street expectations. The key driver of GM growth is Blackwell (in NVL form) now shipping at high volumes. This is coupled with the suspension of H2O which is a below-corporate-level-margins product. In-line with company guidance, we are subsequently modeling GM to remain relatively flat at 75%. Longer term, NVDA sees gross margins in the mid-seventies. The company will keep investors updated on their progress as they prepare for the Vera Rubin transition.

II-NVDA AI GPU Model

Units: We kept our FY2027 units to 10.2M units (+44% Y/Y). We expect Blackwell and Rubin to be 16.2M (combining FY2026-FY2027).

AI GPU sales: Backed by units' upticks and favorable product mix, we estimate FY2027 sales reaching $269B. We expect our Blackwell and Rubin combined sales to reach $417B (+16%) during the C2025-C2026E timeframe. We expect sales of AI GPUs to represent on average high 80% to 90% of total NVDA data center sales in FY2026-FY2027E, with the remaining being comprised primarily of networking (Ethernet and InfiniBand), standalone CPUs, and software/services offerings.

Following the continued strength in AI capex and projects we modestly revised our Accelerator TAM model.

In terms of units... We model AI merchant GPUs to represent the larger mix of AI accelerators throughout C2025E to C2028E. We now expect merchant units to grow at a 29% CAGR vs the prior 27% during that period not only driven by demand from NVDA but also from AMD's recent wins. We nevertheless still suspect NVDA will likely continue to capture the bulk of AI accelerators investment due to its technology leadership and large installed base. Coming from a smaller base, we expect ASIC units to grow at a CAGR of 48%, up 2%, as various ASIC programs come online particularly in the 2027 timeframe. Combining the two, we expect AI accelerators to grow at a 36% CAGR between C2025 and C2028E vs our prior 34%.

In terms of compute sales... We expect the mix of AI merchant GPUs to remain high (from 90% in C2025 to 81% in C2028E). This is despite the expectation of lower merchant unit growth vs. ASICs. The primary reason for AI merchant GPUs sales shares remaining at 81%+ over that period is the significantly higher merchant GPU ASPs (between 3 - 8x vs. ASICs). We model AI merchant GPUs sales to grow at a 27% CAGR vs. ASICs' 65% over the next 3 years to reach $422B and $101B, respectively. We expect the combined TAM to grow at a 32% CAGR for a total of $523B by C2028E vs. our prior $500B forecast.

NVIDIA Corp

Company description

Nvidia is a leader in graphics processing units or GPUs. It is engaged in creating graphics and networking chips, which are used in gaming, data centers, and automotive end markets. Nvidia was founded by Jen-Hsun Huang (current CEO) and partners in January 1993 and is headquartered in Santa Clara, CA.

Investment strategy

We like Buy-rated NVDA on secular AI growth opportunities.

Valuation

Our price target for NVDA of $300 is based on ~30x P/E on C27E earnings power of $10 (incl. SBC). Our 30x P/E multiple is in-line with 3 year average.

Risks

Downside risks to the attainment of our target price include: 1) competition on gaming could drive the stock lower if Nvidia loses market share; 2) slower-than-expected adoption of new platforms can drive lower data center and gaming sales; 3) lumpiness in auto and data center markets can add volatility to the stock/multiple; and 4) cryptomining impact on gaming sales.

Analysts' compensation is determined by Citi Research management and Citigroup's senior management and is based upon activities and services intended to benefit the investor clients of Citigroup Global Markets Inc. and its affiliates (the "Firm"). Compensation is not linked to specific transactions or recommendations. Like all Firm employees, analysts receive compensation that is impacted by overall Firm profitability which includes investment banking, sales and trading, and principal trading revenues. One factor in equity research analyst compensation is arranging corporate access events between institutional clients and the management teams of covered companies. Typically, company management is more likely to participate when the analyst has a positive view of the company.

For financial instruments recommended in the Product in which the Firm is not a market maker, the Firm is a liquidity provider in such financial instruments (and any underlying instruments) and may act as principal in connection with transactions in such instruments. The Firm is a regular issuer of traded financial instruments linked to securities that may have been recommended in the Product. The Firm regularly trades in the securities of the issuer(s) discussed in the Product. The Firm may engage in securities transactions in a manner inconsistent with the Product and, with respect to securities covered by the Product, will buy or sell from customers on a principal basis.

Unless stated otherwise neither the Research Analyst nor any member of their team has viewed the material operations of the Companies for which an investment view has been provided within the past 12 months.

Guide to Citi Research Fundamental Research Investment Ratings:

Citi Research stock recommendations include an investment rating and an optional risk rating to highlight high risk stocks.

Risk rating takes into account both price volatility and fundamental criteria. Stocks will either have no risk rating or a High risk rating assigned.

Investment Ratings: Citi Research investment ratings are Buy, Neutral and Sell. Our ratings are a function of analyst expectations of expected total return ("ETR") and risk. ETR is the sum of the forecast price appreciation (or depreciation) plus the dividend yield for a stock within the next 12 months. The target price is based on a 12 month time horizon. The Investment rating definitions are: Buy (1) ETR of 15% or more or 25% or more for High risk stocks; and Sell (3) for negative ETR. Any covered stock not assigned a Buy or a Sell is a Neutral (2). For stocks rated Neutral (2), if an analyst believes that there are insufficient valuation drivers and/or investment catalysts to derive a positive or negative investment view, they may elect with the approval of Citi Research management not to assign a target price and, thus, not derive an ETR. Citi Research may suspend its rating and target price and assign "Rating Suspended" status for regulatory and/or internal policy reasons. Citi Research may also suspend its rating and target price and assign "Under Review" status for other exceptional circumstances (e.g. lack of information critical to the analyst's thesis, trading suspension) affecting the company and/or trading in the company's securities. In both such situations, the rating and target price will show as "—" and "—" respectively in the rating history price chart. Prior to 11 April 2022 Citi Research assigned "Under Review" status to both situations and prior to 11 Nov 2020 only in exceptional circumstances. As soon as practically possible, the analyst will publish a note re-establishing a rating and investment thesis. Investment ratings are determined by the ranges described above at the time of initiation of coverage, a change in investment and/or risk rating, or a change in target price (subject to limited management discretion). At times, the expected total returns may fall outside of these ranges because of market price movements and/or other short-term volatility or trading patterns. Such interim deviations will be permitted but will become subject to review by Research Management. Your decision to buy or sell a security should be based upon your personal investment objectives and should be made only after evaluating the stock's expected performance and risk.

Catalyst Watch/Short Term Views ("STV") Ratings Disclosure:

Catalyst Watch and STV Upside/Downside calls: Citi Research may also include a Catalyst Watch or STV Upside or Downside call to indicate the analyst expects the share price to rise (fall) in absolute terms over a specified period of 30 or 90 days in reaction to one or more specific near-term catalysts or events impacting the company or the market. A Catalyst Watch will be published when Analyst confidence is high that an impact to share price will occur; it will be a STV when confidence level is moderate. A Catalyst Watch or STV Upside/Downside call will automatically expire at the end of the specified 30/90 day period. The Catalyst Watch will also be automatically removed if share price performance (calculated at market close) exceeds 15% against the direction of the call (unless over-riden by the analyst). The analyst may also remove a Catalyst Watch or STV call prior to the end of the specified period in a published research note. A Catalyst Watch/STV Upside or Downside call may be different from and does not affect a stock's fundamental equity rating, which reflects a longer-term total absolute return expectation. For purposes of FINRA ratings-distribution-disclosure rules, a Catalyst Watch/STV Upside call corresponds to a buy recommendation and a Catalyst Watch/STV Downside call corresponds to a sell recommendation. Any stock not assigned to a Catalyst Watch Upside, Catalyst Watch Downside, STV Upside, or STV Downside call is considered Catalyst Watch/STV No View. For purposes of FINRA ratings distribution-disclosure rules, we correspond Catalyst Watch/STV No View to Hold in our ratings distribution table for our Catalyst Watch/STV Upside/Downside rating system. However, we reiterate that we do not consider No View to be a recommendation. For all Catalyst Watch/STV Upside/Downside calls, risk exists that the catalyst(s) and associated share-price movement will not materialize as expected.
